

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Patron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side. The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

The Telephone Operator Says:

When you make a telephone call, place your mouth close to the telephone transmitter and speak distinctly in an ordinary tone of voice. Do not raise your voice or shout.

In giving your order to the operator repeat each number separately. For instance, in calling 345, say three-four-five.

You can help your service by observing these simple suggestions.

FOURTH ANNUAL MISSISSIPPI-ALABAMA FAIR TO BE GREATEST EXPOSITION HELD IN THE SOUTH

Formal Announcement of Plans Indicate Expenditure of Vast Sum of Money in Premiums in Various Departments.

MERIDIAN'S BIG FAIR TO MARK BEGINNING OF NEW SOUTHERN ERA

The Big Fair and its Mission Explained by Bi-State Association Officials, as Being for the People, First, Last and All Time.

The management of the Mississippi-Alabama Fair greets its thousands of patrons in Mississippi and Alabama, and countless thousands who are yet to become patrons, enthusiastic and cooperative with the management with this, the formal announcement of the plans and arrangements for the great Bi-State Exposition to be held at Meridian the week of October 19th to 24th, 1914.

Prefacing formal statements relative to the various departments of the Mississippi-Alabama Fair, the management takes space to impress on the minds of the public just what a real Fair is capable of, and what it means to the country at large. Fairs are public enterprises, a place where people meet, exchange views, study improved methods, inform themselves as to what progress is being made in the varied pursuits of life exploited by the Fair Association, meet old friends and make new acquaintances. Its purpose is to keep abreast with advanced agriculture, advanced live stock methods and the trades, that a community will be able to take front rank, and cope with the revolutionizing influences and changing customs that are annually taking place, and for this purpose, a time is set for the bringing together of the products of the field, shop and home, that stimulus might be given to those departments of labor upon which rests our great national wealth, prosperity and civilization.

The Mississippi-Alabama Fair has in its three years of activity, rightfully usurped, or assumed that scope of power and national prominence, given only to the great Fairs of the United States. Its name rightfully is assumed. It is a "two" state Fair, combining the features and qualifications of the greatest Fairs of the country. The two states which give it name, and Hilarity and Entertainment. From the dawn of the sun on Monday morning, October 19th, until midnight, Saturday, the 24th, the Fair grounds will be a seething cauldron of hilarity and excitement. The amusement features have not been overlooked for a single moment in the plans for the forthcoming Fair, and the great variety of entertainment is to be offered by the management. To make the 1914 Fair the greatest outdoor entertainment ever given in Mississippi or Alabama has been the aim of the Fair management, and preparations not hitherto indulged in by the association are going forward with rapidity and singleness of purpose looking to this end.

The Bigness of the Fair.

To take the premium list up, department by department, would be almost an endless task, but a brief synopsis of what is being done to the several departments will not be amiss; leading off with the horse and mule department, substantial increase in premiums have been made in both departments and in the Grand Night Horse Show, especial emphasis has been laid looking to making this the great society and exposition feature of the week. In the cattle department, premiums to be offered this year exceed by $1000.00 the 1913 premiums, and every pure bred animal produced, with one or two exceptions, will be cared for. In this connection, attention is called to the special awards made by four of the National Cattle Association, The Hereford, Shorthorn, Jersey and Holstein Friesian, setting aside, respectively, $400.00; $250.00, $120.00 and a $50 silver cup to be given through the Mississippi-Alabama Fair.

In the poultry department, considerable importance is attached by reason of the fact that the Mississippi the management feels that the greatness of the Mississippi-Alabama Fair is due to the manifold co-operative-ness extended by its patrons, as well as the keynote aim of its directing heads to provide for greater exhibitions with the passage of the years.

Association will hold its annual show with the Fair.

Predictions for the greatness of the coming fair are based largely upon the unqualified successes of the past three years, during which over 250,000 people have passed within the gates of the fair, as visitors, exhibitors and co-operators with the Fair Association in building this Fair up to the great height it now assumes. It is the aim of the Association to make this Fair one of the greatest in the entire South, and to that end plans are constantly being formulated.

The scope of the Association has no limit, to everything produced in this great country attractive awards in the way of cash premiums are held out. Every farmer and every household has a keen interest in the Fair, and to each and everyone, a cordial invitation is always issued to come and be with the Fair management to aid in building up and developing this and our adjoining state.

The 1914 Exposition.

The management of the Mississippi-Alabama Fair predicts an exposition during the week of October 19-24, 1914, which will mark a new era in the history of the Association. The premium list which is being sent out through half a dozen southern states is unusually comprehensive and carries with it announcements of premium awards not hitherto attempted in this state, and excelling by far those offered at numerous other Fairs. The total amount of premiums to be offered in 1914 will exceed $20,000.00 as against $17,000.00 in 1913. There are numerous classes and divisions in many departments, and special features of great importance to the people are to be found in the pages of the premium list.

The Agricultural department will be dignified this year by another substantial increase in premiums, and as a special attraction for county exhibitors, club individuals, a bonus of $50.00 is to be paid each and every one where they have installed their exhibit by 6 o'clock on the opening day of the Fair. The Boys' Corn Club department is again taking front rank, and splendid premiums are again being offered the youthful members of the county corn clubs.

Sheep and goat premiums will remain practically the same as in 1913. In the dairy department new classes have been created, and of especial interest will be the cow contest. This department is under the supervision of a government dairyman, and great attention is to be given to the features of this department.

A new feature for the Fair has been the installation of a department styled The Temple of Childhood. This innovation consists of the gathering of the photographs of children of the two states and arranging them by states and counties, after which they will be judged for beauty and splendid gold and silver medals awarded. The Temple of Childhood follows in line with the Baby Contest. In the latter instance the babies being judged from a scientific standpoint, after which beautiful gold and bronze medals are to be given by the Ladies' Home Journal, and attractive gold premiums given by the Fair management.

Every department of the great Fair is to be in charge of experts, and every department has almost undergone revolutionary changes in order to make this the greatest Fair of the age. The people of the two great states are to be the only judges of the efforts of the Fair management, and after the curtain has been rung down on the 1914 Mississippi-Alabama Fair, it is predicted that its praises will have been sung by over 100,000 people.

Trustee's Sale.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE in the payment of an indebtedness secured by a Deed of Trust, executed December 30, 1911, by Marshal Dean and Melinda L. Dean, which Deed of Trust is recorded in the office of the Chancery Clerk of Yazoo County, Mississippi, in Book C. L., page 792, and having been requested by the holder of the indebtedness secured by said Deed of Trust, I, J. F. Barbour, trustee named in said Deed of Trust, will, on Monday, the nineteenth day of October, A. D., 1914, in front of the Court House South door in said Yazoo County, Mississippi, offer for sale and sell to the highest bidder, for cash, within legal hours the following described property, situated in Yazoo City, in the county of Yazoo, and State of Mississippi, to-wit:
